In accordance with the Bail Reform Act, 18 U.S.C. § 3142(f), a detention hearing has been held. I conclude that the following facts require the detention of the defendant pending trial in this case.

- ☐ (3) A period of not more than five years has elapsed since the (date of conviction) (release of the defendant from imprisonment) for the offense described in finding (1).
- ☐ (4) Findings Nos. (1), (2) and (3) establish a rebuttable presumption that no condition or combination of conditions will reasonably assure the safety of (an)other person(s) and the community. I further find that the defendant has not rebutted this presumption.

Part II - Written Statement of Reasons for Detention

There are a series of factors I have to consider in determining whether there are conditions that can be set that will assure your appearance and the safety of the community.

The first factor is the nature and circumstances of the offense charged, including whether the offense is a crime of violence or involves a destructive device or firearm. Clearly yours does, so that is a negative factor.

The next factor is the weight of the evidence. There is a Grand Jury Indictment which is a negative.

The next factor is the person's character, which includes your physical and mental condition. Those do not appear to be a problem.

Your length of residence in the community is somewhat mixed in that you have been in several communities for periods of time.

Your community ties are again somewhat mixed.

Your past conduct, which includes history relating to drug or alcohol abuse, criminal history, and record concerning appearance at court proceedings, is a real problem. You have been released in the past with conditions, including that you re-appear, and yet you have not done so. You have also been released on probation with a condition that you not further violate the law, and you are accused of violating the law.

The next factor is whether at the time of the current offense or arrest you were on probation or parole, which you were as we have already discussed.

The final factor is the nature and seriousness of the danger to any person in the community that would be posed by your release. There isn't a large amount of information that would indicate you are a danger. The biggest problem is that I'm not sure you will appear and, therefore, I don't think I can come up with conditions that would guarantee your appearance. You will remain detained pending further hearing.
